

2022 OACP Awards

PAUL NAGY AWARD:

Presented to

Chief Geoff Spalding
Astoria Police Department

2022

In recognition of your tireless commitment to the Oregon Association Chiefs of Police through initiative, dedicated service and leadership excellence. Your many contributions have positively impacted your peers, enhanced the reputation of the law enforcement profession in Oregon and left a leadership legacy that will benefit future generations of policing leaders.

Your notable contributions include serving as OACP President, creating, launching, and managing the Oregon Law Enforcement Executive Leadership Institute (LEELI), chairing the Oregon Task Force on School Safety, founding and leading the OACP Homelessness Committee and co-chairing the OACP Legislative Committee and Second in Command Committee.

The OACP is a better, stronger, and more effective association because of your contributions and leadership; thereby making you a worthy recipient of this highest of honors.

PAUL NAGY AWARD:

Presented to

Chief John Teague
Keizer Police Department

2022

In recognition of your remarkable service to the Oregon Association Chiefs of Police and your commitment to excellence in policing leadership.

Over the past two decades, you dedicated countless hours to serve on several critically important committees, boards, task forces and commissions on behalf of the Oregon Association Chiefs of Police. In each case, you represented the law enforcement profession with absolute integrity, patient diplomacy, thoughtful engagement, and a principled approach.

Among your notable contributions include serving as OACP President, envisioning, and securing the creation of the DPSST Center for Policing Excellence, co-chairing the OACP Legislative Committee, serving on the Board on Public Safety Standards and Training, Oregon Task Force on Public Safety, Governor's Juvenile Crime Prevention Advisory Council and the Oregon Commission on Statewide Law Enforcement Standards of Conduct and Discipline.

Your efforts have enhanced the reputation of policing, built trust and yielded positive outcomes that will benefit youth, communities and the law enforcement profession for years to come. The OACP is a better, stronger, and more effective association because of your contributions and leadership; thereby making you a worthy recipient of this highest of honors.

PRESIDENT'S AWARD

Presented to

Deanna Moore
OACP Association Executive Assistant

2022

Deanna began working with the Victory Group in the spring of 2019. Her primary responsibilities are for most communications through Association messages and the Weekly Updates. Additionally, Deanna oversees the membership application process and the steps of that process.

You will see Deanna's creativity as she puts together conference PowerPoint presentations, conference notebooks, and conference posters. Deanna is known as diligent and detailed, a problem solver, a team player, and the fact that she has been married to a Police Officer for more than 25 years, she has a solid loyalty to and an understanding of the world of law enforcement. It is my honor and privilege to present my OACP President's Award to Deanna Moore.

In recognition of your hard work and sustained effort to ensure the success of the programs, services, and conferences of the Oregon Association Chiefs of Police. Your dedication, talent and unwavering support for the association and the law enforcement profession is a testament to your character and is greatly appreciated.
